

FIFTY-SEVENTH YEAR. VOL. LVII, No. 187 EDMONTON, ALBERTA—WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 18, 1937 Single Copy, Five Cents

Kanger Still Leads
NEWPORT R.I., Aug. 18.—Harold S. Vanderbilt's Kanger led a fleet of about 20 boats at the 10-mile mark today in the race for the Astor cup. Redcaver II, Rainbow, Endeavour and Teahoe trailed in that order.

THE CIO SAYS KING

Federal Government Has No Alternative in Law, Says Premier

Jinks was disallowed without reason. Even the power was used of confederates but rarely since the turn of the century.

Mr. King particularly emphasized the provision of the Alberta statutes which deprive the individual of his right of access to the courts. He also expressed belief that the people of Canada as a whole favored the use of existing procedure in effecting constitutional changes.

He would have preferred placing the matter before the courts, the prime minister said, but without suspension of their operation in the manner proposed by Mr. Albert Jinks it was necessary to proceed with disallowance law "irreparable damage" result.

The three Alberta acts were passed at a special four-day session of the legislature which opened Aug. 2 and were rushed through in record time.

Makes Good

Mr. King particularly emphasized the provision of the Alberta statutes which deprive the individual of his right of access to the courts. He also expressed belief that the people of Canada as a whole favored the use of existing procedure in effecting constitutional changes.

He would have preferred placing the matter before the courts, the prime minister said, but without suspension of their operation in the manner proposed by Mr. Albert Jinks it was necessary to proceed with disallowance law "irreparable damage" result.

The three Alberta acts were passed at a special four-day session of the legislature which opened Aug. 2 and were rushed through in record time.

DEMANDED LICENSE

The most important of the three required bankers to take out provincial licenses and subscribe to the content of the provincial credit commission and local directors appointed by appointees of the provincial Social Credit board.

Under the statute, any banker who refused to take out licenses could be ordered to close his business and his license could be cancelled for failure to observe the provisions of the legislation.

Under the statute, any banker applying for a license would nominate two men, one from the province and one from the local directors. The Social Credit board would then select the board of five men to have complete control of the financial policy of the banks.

When applying for license, a banker must make a statement of his assets and liabilities, and must also state the property and civil rights of his Alberta citizen.

NO RECOURSE

The second act would prohibit any unlicensed banker from initiating or defending an action in a civil court of the province.

The third would prohibit any person from testing the constitutionality of Alberta legislation in any court of the province without the permission of the provincial government.

Constitutional responsibility is given to the federal government by the British North America Act, not other than to disallow the acts of the provinces.

Prime Minister King declared that the Social Credit board would exercise the power of disallowance "under the authority of the federal government" and that the prime minister said, and for changes in the constitution, he would not "constitute a clear invasion of the federal field of responsibility."

Appropriate and legal means existed, the prime minister said, by which the constitution could be amended, as against "arbitrary and unilateral action."

He was, however, convinced the people of Canada wished the constitution to remain unchanged.

The government, however, recognized the need to consider, in the light of developments in the Confederation, need for changes in the constitution, and that a permanent solution might be reached.

The prime minister's statement followed.

At the recent session of the legislature of Alberta, three acts were passed which are of the utmost concern to the people of Canada.

The first act was designed to bring operations of banks chartered by the Dominion of Canada under provincial supervision and to place them under the jurisdiction of the Social Credit board.

Such banks are to be excluded from operation in Alberta except under conditions of license issued by a provincial credit commission, and their operations are to be directed and controlled by local directors appointed to a Social Credit board.

WIDED ABERRANT

When received, the following telegram to the premier of Alberta:

"The Social Credit board is acting under provisions British North America Act and is in violation thereof in recent session of Alberta legislature."

Before asking question for decision of government in council, the premier said, he did not know whether your government would appreciate my raising the hearing of a reference to supreme court of Canada regarding validity of the statute, he said, and mine and to undertake providing the government with a report not to take any steps toward enforcement of any of said measures.

"The reference would be made under section 35 of the British North America Act which provides for reference by the government to the supreme court of Canada on questions of law or fact touching the powers of the provinces or the federal government."

In view of urgency of matter, the premier said, he would appreciate immediate reply.

The reply received from Premier Albert Jinks was to the effect that the government intended the intention of the government to proceed immediately with the enforcement of the legislation in question.

CLARIFICATION

In legislation in question, the government of Canada are equipped with the power of disallowance of the federal field of responsibility. The practical application of such legislation, both as the province and as the federal government, is to be found in the following:

First, the power of disallowance is to be found in the following: "The Social Credit board is acting under provisions British North America Act and is in violation thereof in recent session of Alberta legislature."

Second, the power of disallowance is to be found in the following: "The Social Credit board is acting under provisions British North America Act and is in violation thereof in recent session of Alberta legislature."

Third, the power of disallowance is to be found in the following: "The Social Credit board is acting under provisions British North America Act and is in violation thereof in recent session of Alberta legislature."

Fourth, the power of disallowance is to be found in the following: "The Social Credit board is acting under provisions British North America Act and is in violation thereof in recent session of Alberta legislature."

Fifth, the power of disallowance is to be found in the following: "The Social Credit board is acting under provisions British North America Act and is in violation thereof in recent session of Alberta legislature."

Sixth, the power of disallowance is to be found in the following: "The Social Credit board is acting under provisions British North America Act and is in violation thereof in recent session of Alberta legislature."

Seventh, the power of disallowance is to be found in the following: "The Social Credit board is acting under provisions British North America Act and is in violation thereof in recent session of Alberta legislature."

Eighth, the power of disallowance is to be found in the following: "The Social Credit board is acting under provisions British North America Act and is in violation thereof in recent session of Alberta legislature."

Ninth, the power of disallowance is to be found in the following: "The Social Credit board is acting under provisions British North America Act and is in violation thereof in recent session of Alberta legislature."

Tenth, the power of disallowance is to be found in the following: "The Social Credit board is acting under provisions British North America Act and is in violation thereof in recent session of Alberta legislature."

JOHN L. LEWIS Vanishes CHIEF OF C.I.O. ON POLITICS

He came back into his union chief office of the C.I.O. in 1935, and then he spoke out in endorsement of labor to organize and to bargain collectively with employers," said Mr. Lewis with vigor. Labor wants the right of free assembly and the right of free expression of opinion, he said, and he wants to bargain on wages, hours and working conditions.

"Labor wants to establish industrial democracy in the industrial areas. Labor wants to fight to a larger participation in the increased productive efficiency of industry."

"On that point, Tom," he broke off in a remark to Mr. Kennedy, "without the bonus record of General Motors and public opinion of $400,000 to Chairman Smith, apparently almost as much as President Roosevelt and General Motors, thousands of dollars would be a little better."

LABOR'S RIGHT OF EXPRESSION

Mr. Lewis said that Lewis differs from the Lewis of the platform. While the massive voice is the same, the message is different. He is not running in that almost ominous tone with which his public is known. He is now taking a more moderate tone, and he is taking a more moderate tone.

NAVY TOLD TO SINK SUB IF SHIP ATTACKED

stolen

[illegible]

The decision was limited to Spanish troubles.

"I am not," he declared. "If any of our ships are attacked without warning we will sink whoever did it."

AREA WIDENING

The following statement was issued after the minister's meeting:

"We have decided that we shall not only continue at the increasing number of attacks upon shipping in the Mediterranean Sea, but also extend the area in which the vessels of our navy may operate."

"His Majesty's government have been informed by reliable sources that a British merchant ship is attacked by submarine forces off the coast of Spain. We are authorized to counter-attack the submarine."

Old motion pictures are sold for silver which can be recovered from the film.

"Correctly or omitted to give?"

Dennis expressed her regret with an effort and replied: "It was my fault. I forgot to tell you."

"You told me the letter to my father."
